

Insight on your Players Parents

Meeting Soccer Parents Expectations

A recent study conducted by ENDALGO found that the majority of parents expect conditioning, drills/practices, scrimmages, and tournament/league games when choosing a club for their kids. As a coach, it's important to know what your players parents are expecting so you can meet their expectations. Does your youth soccer program offer everything that's expected?

WHAT PARENTS EXPECT YOUTH SOCCER CLUBS TO HAVE

We know every club is different, so it might be worth conducting a study of your own. You could ask your team parents what they expect from your soccer program, or even if they have any comments or feedback for you as a coach. This will not only give you valuable insight, but also show your players parents that you value their input.

Coaches who use ENDALGO to manage their team have access to the group discussion feature to learn more about their players parents. You can also easily schedule and post new events of any kind and the parents will be notified. This is a great way for coaches to ensure that everyone's on the same page. To learn more about the ways ENDALGO can help carry the weight that comes with being a youth soccer coach, visit endalgo.com or download the ENDALGO app for free.
